

Linguistics. Special Translation

Code: 45.04.02

Profile: Linguistics

MA Program: Special Translation

This program aims to train highly-qualified specialists with a proficiency in two foreign languages. The graduates can work successfully in their professional field and efficiently engage in professional activity using Russian or any of the foreign languages.

Program features

- The foreign languages for the program are English and Japanese.
- The majority of the subjects are taught in a foreign language.
- We offer internship opportunities at a partner university and abroad.

Key subjects

- Foreign Language
- Specialized Translation
- Translation Studies
- Editing of Professional Texts

What you will learn with our program:

Our graduates know:

- English and Japanese languages for successful professional communication;
- the peculiarities of corporate culture and speech etiquette.

Our graduates can:

- translate texts on different topics;
- conduct business correspondence;
- do a stylistic editing of a translated text;
- engage in professional activity using both foreign languages.

Our graduates have:

- basic knowledge in a variety of spheres as well as terminology awareness in these spheres;
- skills in social and intercultural communication to successfully establish social and professional contacts;
- flexible skills for successful engagement in professional activity.

Entrance exams

Translation of a socio-political text from Japanese into Russian (1,000-1,200 characters). The level of difficulty basically corresponds with levels N3 and N2 within the framework of the Japanese Language Proficiency Test.

Staff teaching on this program (departments)

- Department of Eastern Languages
- Department of Theory and Practice of the English Language, Translation and Interpreting
- Department of the English Language at the Higher School of Translation and Interpreting